

MEDIA RELEASE

28 August 2019.

After careful consideration donations raised at this year's Fiji Regatta Week will be distributed to SEA MERCY. A charitable organisation operating throughout the Pacific, which is synonymous to the meaning of aiding and developing communities with sensitivity and integrity.

Sea Mercy embarks on several community initiatives each year, both water and land based. Initiatives like, remote island soils education which helps toward sustainable farming and economic development.

Other initiatives include the Floating Health Care Clinic and the exciting Amatasi Project which strives to empower local communities to be self-sufficient in a sustainable manner and to support and educate local populations in the lost art of transport using the wind.

"With the fragility and ongoing threats to Fiji's and the Pacific's eco system. I am sure our sailing community will agree, that Sea Mercy and the amazing community work it carries out is an obvious choice where to donate", says company Director William Moffat.

Special thanks to Bay of Islands Port Opua. Who have initiated a one Musket Money donation for each entry into this year's Hobie Cat Challenge.

As well as $5 from each entrant, Musket Cove will also donate 50cents from every drink sold. If you imbibed a little too much the night before take solace that your dusty demeanor has gone toward an excellent cause.
